The 4 MOST IMPORTANT FACTORS

WHEN BUYING A WATER IONIZER

We guarantee that if you stick to this list, you will be drinking the purest, healthiest ionized alkaline water available with the best hydrogen and antioxidant levels, -ORP and pH levels.

Plus, you will have the best alkaline water machine that produces many different pH levels for other non-drinking uses to help save you money and to help you look and feel great.

Plates

The size, type of material and number of plates are what matter the most. Choose an 11 or 13-plate unit with Solid/Mesh hybrid plates that are at least 7" x 4" (don't skimp on this). Make sure that the ionizer plates are made from medical grade, strengthened titanium that is dipped multiple times in platinum.

Filtration

The unit must have 2 filters, and they must be Ultra filters only. No exceptions! Make sure the company offers pre-filters for unique water types like well water and soft water, etc.

Higher Amperage means Safe Drinking water

If you want a water ionizer that doesn't need to add chemicals to reach high and low pH levels, then be sure that it has enough amps, no exceptions. Do not buy a unit with a chemical injection port that adds a salt or saline solution unless you are looking to make a form of bleach! Himalayan salts sound exotic, but not when you want pure and healthy ionized water.

Lifetime Warranty and Long Trial Period

Tyent USA is the only company that offers a zero-stipulation lifetime warranty and a 75-day trial. Why settle for less?

Luxury Features of Water Ionizers

There are some luxury water ionizer upgrade features that add a nice touch of convenience and sophistication. Look for options like:

Look for the newest, most advanced water ionizer features to ensure that you get the best negative -ORP levels (antioxidants), the best pH levels and the best molecular breakdown for optimal hydration.

The key features to insist on are:

- Solid/Mesh hybrid plates (water ionizer electrodes)
- SMPS Plus
- Plates should be at least 7" x 4"
- 11 or 13 plates are now the industry standard for optimal benefits
- Dialipure Filters with Ultra .01 Micron Filtration Technology
- Lifetime warranty with no stipulations. Some companies offer a lifetime warranty but then have pages of small print with stipulations that you need to follow or your warranty will be void. Having to follow these rules can cost you time and money.

$895 for a water ionizer is a great deal...or is it? It sure sounds great, especially if the materials and the quality are the same as those of a $4,000 water ionizer.

The reality? It's not the same.

Question:

So, do I need to buy a
$4,000 water ionizer?

Answer: No!

However...

Choosing a water ionizer that costs between $800 to $1,200 is not worth the health risks, unless it has Permelec plates and is made in Japan or Korea.

Here's why:

The key components, especially the plates (electrodes), can corrode and poison the water if they are made from subpar materials or metals. Ionizers that are made in China or Taiwan are not subject to the same strict manufacturing guidelines as those made in Korea and Japan, so don't put your health at risk by taking a chance on water ionizers from China or Taiwan.

WATER IONIZERS MADE IN JAPAN, KOREA OR CHINA:

WHY DOES IT MATTER?

Water ionizers that are made in China or Taiwan do cost less, but are you willing to sacrifice the health and safety of you and your family to save a few bucks?

Water ionizers made in China or Taiwan are not certified lead-free. Water ionizers made in these countries have been found to have corrosive plate materials. More specifically, water ionizer machines made in these countries are more likely to use titanium-platinum alloys as plate material. Alloys shouldn't be used in water ionizer machines because they don't ionize your water well enough and may leach toxins into your drinking water.

Beware of Water Ionizers
Made in China or Taiwan!

WATER IONIZERS

are Best when Made in JAPAN OR KOREA

Water ionizers are considered medical devices in Japan and Korea; therefore, they are more closely regulated and thus more reliable.

Look for water ionizers that are certified by the South Korea Ministry of Food and Drug Safety or the Japanese Ministry of Health.

Korea and Japan abide by strict labor laws, which means that your water ionizer was not made in a sweatshop or by a child laborer.

The country of origin of your water ionizer matters immensely!
You should know who made your water ionizer machine and where it was made.

The quality of manufacturing matters when it comes to water ionizers.
